Don't miss this opportunity to:

- CONNECT with others from around the State interested in building opportunities for girls in STEM.
- LEARN about research-based practices in recruiting and retaining girls in STEM.
- EXPLORE Colorado's STEM education programs, organizations and services.
- SHARE challenges, opportunities and accomplishments.
- DEVELOP tools to strengthen program evaluation.
- NETWORK, COLLABORATE, and HAVE FUN!

Meet after-school, K-12, college and university educators, representatives of government, museums and industry, parents, and others from around the state.

Also gain access to mini-grants for
STEM collaborative projects!

STEM... careers that turn ideas into reality.

CoCoSTEM is Colorado's statewide affiliate of the National Girls Collaborative Project (NGCP), an NSF-funded initiative to advance gender equity in STEM (science, technology, engineering and mathematics). Thank you for the contributions and collaboration from our many partners, including the event sponsor—the Equity Assistance Center at Metropolitan State University of Denver.
