National Women's History Project History

- Spearheaded creation of National Women's History Week in 1980, which was expanded to National Women's History Month in 1987
 - Women's history was not being taught in the schools
 - Women's history was not being recognized, recorded, documented, or promoted so...

Started writing women back into history!

Why Women's History?

- Inspiration comes to our lives from knowing about strong women
- Role models inspire us to take action in our own lives
- Importance of reinforcing self-esteem by knowing about the accomplishments of women who have come before us
- January is National Mentoring Month!

Women's History Alliance

- For over 35 years we've built and have been a network of national and local organizations
- Now creating an alliance to expand this network to link to all organizations interested in this work:
 - Connect to and support each other's work
 - Share tools and templates
 - Build up to our vision for 2020 by having Women's Equality Day on August 26 (the 100th anniversary of women in the United States winning the right to vote)
